

Dear Khant,

After careful review of your application by the members of the Admissions Committee, I am sorry to inform you that we cannot offer you admission to Carleton College. I understand this is disappointing news given your strong interest in Carleton.

Each year the number of students seeking a place in Carleton's entering class is very competitive. Many well-qualified candidates like yourself present impressive academic records and compelling personal qualities. The large number of applicants and relatively small entering class size, rather than academic and personal talents, are often reasons for our having to deny admission to promising candidates like yourself. Unfortunately, we simply cannot accommodate all who apply.

On behalf of both the college and the Admissions Committee, thank you for your interest in Carleton. We wish you much success in your further studies.

Sincerely,

Art D. Rodriguez
Vice President and Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid
